

West Midlands Police's Brand

Executive Summary

Our brand is not just our name, logo or how something looks. It's what people say about us when we're not in the room. It's what we want people to think about us. It's our reputation. It's our quality of service. It's how we do things. That's why it's everybody's responsibility to follow this policy because we are all brand ambassadors for WMP.

Our brand shapes how we achieve our mission of working in partnership, making communities safer. It influences the entire experience people have with WMP at every touchpoint. Everything we do matters and has the potential to change people's lives. So, it's important we get it right.

It's your responsibility to bring to life our brand in every interaction you have. From protecting children to reassuring victims of crime. A campaign on the street or a tweet, to how we welcome people to our website or into our buildings. And it starts from within. It's our culture, from the way we treat each other and work together to get the job done.

This policy and the brand guidelines give clarity and supports you in bringing brand WMP to life in everything you do. From how you talk to people to how you create content.

This policy outlines the guidelines and governance of West Midlands Police's brand and supports WMP's strategic aims of delivering a service for local people, creating engaged communities and being an employer of choice, as well as corporate strategies.

The views of our employees as well as those we serve created our brand. It's why it is important to consistently apply it to everything you do because it's what people expect from WMP.

 - Vehicle livery
- The ID site outlines our brand ethos. This includes:
 - Our purpose
 - Our mission
 - Our values
 - Our behaviours
 - How we position ourselves

- You must consult Corporate Communications Department (CCD) at the earliest stage of a project or proposal for advice on how to correctly apply brand.
- Always reflect our brand appropriately according to our ID when working with other organisations. For example, when working in partnership, designing or delivering services.
- If branding merchandise such as pens, mugs etc items should be ethically produced, locally sourced where possible and environmentally sustainable ie made from recycled products and be recyclable at the end of their life. This supports the PCC's Police and Crime Plan and our Green Strategy.
- You must not deviate from the brand guidelines unless authorised by the assistant director of CCD.
- Changes against the brand will only be considered in extreme circumstances.
- Digital communication requires more variations of our brand and content. This is due to the technical requirements involved and the fast-moving nature online.
- These will be created in a consistent and planned way and guidelines updated on the ID site.
- We design our content and services so they are accessible to as many people as possible.
- When producing any digital assets, from websites to presentations and videos, they must meet the guidelines outlined in the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines \(WCAG\) 2.1 to levels A and AA.
- Old variations of WMP's brand must be replaced. Historical examples can remain if the changes are costly and do not represent good value for money.
- It's everyone's responsibility to follow the guidelines outlined on our ID site.
- Email BrandID if you need to:
 - make changes in your department and would like advice and support
 - report misuse of the brand guidelines

WHAT ARE CORPORATE COMMUNICATIONS DEPARTMENT (CCD) RESPONSIBLE FOR?

- CCD are the gatekeepers of WMP's brand and are responsible for governing and maintaining WMP's brand guidelines.
- The Assistant Director of CCD is responsible for the creation, ownership and accountability of CCD strategy, including:
 - Communications
 - Internal communications
 - Engagement
 - Brand
 - Social media
 - Digital strategies
- CCD will:
 - Achieve a consistent use of WMP's brand in line with our brand guidelines
 - Increase savings and efficiencies by providing in-house design, multimedia and print services. Where this is not possible we will approve the use of external services.
 - Provide best value for money when buying products which use our brand.
 - Verify the products and services we use are ethical, responsibly sourced and environmentally friendly.
- CCD must approve any use of WMP's brand, logo or ID. Except for pre-approved branded templates such as stationery and digital assets.
- CCD and Corporate Asset Management (CAM) will deliver all graphic design, multimedia and print services. If needed, CCD or CAM must approve the use of an external provider for these services.
- In (contractual) exceptions to this when artwork is produced by a third party, CCD must still approve the final product.
- Senior leaders are responsible for the correct application of the WMP brand within their departments. CCD will provide support and advice.
- CCD must approve all documentary and filming requests.
- We aim to be open and transparent with all documentary request. We have the right to refuse any requests for security or reputational reasons which could harm our brand.
- This includes any filming that happens on WMP property. In certain circumstances we will have exclusive rights with a filming provider.
- We have the right to grant or refuse access to our locations for documentary companies. We have the right to withdraw any permissions.
- WMP does not own the copyright to any material filmed by a documentary company. The footage must be used for the programme and must not be used in any other programmes.
- CCD will have final sign off over all content produced before it's published.
- WMP has the right to view a product before it's published or broadcast. WMP must be given time to review the product and amend anything which:
